LONDON (Reuters) -The World Health Organization does not believe the monkeypox outbreak outside Africa will lead to a pandemic, an official said on Monday, adding it remains unclear if infected people who are not displaying symptoms can transmit the disease.

Monkey pox unlikely to become another 'pandemic' says WHO

More than 300 suspected and confirmed cases of monkeypox – a usually mild illness that spreads through close contact and can cause flu-like symptoms and pus-filled skin lesions – have been reported in May, mostly in Europe.

The WHO is considering whether the outbreak should be assessed as a “potential public health emergency of international concern” or PHEIC. Such a declaration, as was done for COVID-19 and Ebola, would help accelerate research and funding to contain the disease.

Asked whether this monkeypox outbreak has the potential to grow into a pandemic, Rosamund Lewis, technical lead for monkeypox from the WHO Health Emergencies Programme said: “We don’t know but we don’t think so.”

“At the moment, we are not concerned of a global pandemic,” she said.

Once monkeypox has been contracted, the duration of the rash emerging and scabs falling off is recognised as the infectious period, but there is limited information on whether there is any spread of the virus by people who are not symptomatic, she added.

“We really don’t actually yet know whether there’s asymptomatic transmission of monkeypox – the indications in the past have been that this is not a major feature – but this remains to be determined, she said.

The strain of virus implicated in the outbreak is understood to kill a small fraction of those infected, but no deaths have been reported so far.

Most cases have cropped up in Europe rather than in the Central and West African countries where the virus is endemic, and are predominantly not linked to travel.

Scientists are therefore looking into what might explain this unusual surge of cases, while public health authorities suspect there is some degree of community transmission.

Some countries have begun to offer vaccines to close contacts of confirmed cases.

Editor: WHO, Big Pharma and health authorities have been priming the world for another false pandemic so we take little notice of their claims.

One of the few patriots left who understands the system and how it has been totally subverted under every citizen's nose. If we can help to turn it around we will, otherwise our children will have nothing. Our investigations show there is no 'government' of the people for the people of Australia. The removal of the Crown from Australian Parliaments, followed by the incorporation of Parliaments aided by the Australia Act 1987 has left us with corporate government with policies not laws, that apply only to members of political parties and the public service. There is no law, other than the Common Law. This fact will be borne out in the near future as numerous legal challenges in place now, come to a head soon.

QANTAS has just restarted overseas flights and along comes monkeypox.

You just can't keep those QANTAS stewards away from those green monkeys can you?

From monkeypox they will bring in smallpox.

The smallpox vaccine will be their goal.

Bill Gates has already cited smallpox as his example of another coming pandemic.

The history of smallpox and the first vaccine has been extensively researched then recorded in the (2015) book:

'Dissolving illusions, Diseases, Vaccines and the Forgotten History' by Suzanne Humphries MD and Roman Bystryanyk.

This book gives the context around Edward Jenner's experiments with inoculation for smallpox which were challenged by many Doctors at the time including a claim that the British Government had financially supported Jenner's vaccine experimentation to the tune of 20,000 pounds.

Journal reviews at the time in the 1800's showed that a great many people who had undergone vaccination were still suffering from smallpox.

Numerous Medical journals detailed how smallpox could still infect those who previously had smallpox and that those who were vaccinated could also be infected.

There were more admissions to the London small-pox hospital in 1844 than during the smallpox epidemic of 1781 before vaccination began.

One third of the deaths from smallpox were in people who had previously been vaccinated.

Newspapers constantly reported deaths from smallpox in vaccinated citizens as well as deaths from other conditions after vaccination.

For example, from a skin condition called erysipelas.

The book also describes how even modern smallpox vaccines do not actually contain cowpox or smallpox virus, but a human/animal hybrid agent that never existed in nature until the era of vaccination. It has been cultivated over time by passing pox material back and forth between animals and humans....an unknown broth of hundreds of thousands of non-cowpox microbes...

The present smallpox vaccine is noted to contain African Green Monkey Vero cells, HEPES, 2% human serum albumin, 0.7% sodium chloride USP, 5% Mannitol, USP, neomycin, polymyxin B, 50% Glycerin USP, 0.25% phenol USP.

Reference: CDC Epidemiology and Prevention of vaccine Preventable Diseases, 13th Edition.

Who knows what the next smallpox rollout will contain....

Further quotes from the book:

"after vaccination erysipelas set in and it took such a bad course that at the expiration of 14 days the child died. It is quite certain that in hospitals...the erysipelas of vaccination has been the starting point of disastrous epidemics of erysipelas affecting the inmates generally".

"Ongoing reports of acute pemphigus following vaccination appeared in various medical journals. Lesions were for the most part bullous..."

Every Health Professional needs to read this historical text compilation by Dr Humphries et al to open their eyes of understanding while they can.

They owe at least that much to the public for what is coming.

If we don't know history, we will repeat it.

We are repeating it.

It's likely 'autoimmune blistering disease', pemphigus vulgaris.

Reference: PubMed "autoimmune mucocutaneous blistering diseases after SarsCov2 vaccination"

"Cases of severe autoimmune blistering diseases (AIBDs) have recently been reported in association...with (SARS-CoV-2) vaccination"

So now we have AIBDs not just VAIDS...I wonder what will be next.

Could the almighty guardian of human health, the WHO be wrong?

Monkeypox was "discovered" in ALL those countries slated to be economically imploded to "fit in" with Schwab's "Great Reset". Koshier Kleptocracy has inherited the earth and ALL that's in it... including YOU!!! Just waiting for the GORILLA FLU now. It might turn out as a real "dropper" of sustainability.

Everything is planned, Everything.

Your politicians are complicit.

You all were guilty at some stage calling people conspiracy theorists! It's come back to bite you hard.

Interesting to note, that in March 2021, the Munich Security Conference and Nuclear Threat Initiative (NTI) announced that Monkey-Pox would be released on 15 May 2022.

They actually give advance notice to what they are doing. Just run of the mill tests I suppose.

Pandemic of fear, they'll be lining up, bending over, taking anything divied out, injection junkies. I hear them "save me"!

Jen | June 3, 2022 at 6:44 pm

Seems a lot like shingles which is rife in vaccinated people... is it a cover for that? In any case in the beginning they said the symptoms are hard to transmit and only last a couple of weeks... Just like all the ads on TV for IVF telling people that being unable to conceive is common – sterility being a common side effect of jabs..

I don't think its anything to worry about – however there will still be plenty of people lining for whatever jab is available for this pox...! Will they never learn.

The W H O will TRY to change anything into a Scamdemic... Sorry Plandemic...!

It got dumped at Davos!

robirobyn | June 3, 2022 at 3:32 pm

Sure,

It took the WHO a few months after pressure (no prizes for guessing from where) to declare Covid pandemic,

Is this a case of 'Here we go again'

periguinfalcon | June 3, 2022 at 3:09 pm

Only because people are starting to wake up to the bullshit!!! Everything from the covid to high fuel prices is engineered, our leaders are bribed pedophiles and the brown shirt brigade assisting in our misery. There's going to be a lot of witch hunts very soon. All these traitors have addresses.
